THE UNITED STATES CENSUS

The early census records furnish us much of the most important information in forwarding such a study as this. Accordingly, those records have been given a rather thorough inspection. For the periods from 1790 through 1850, every page of the entire census has been searched for the States of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, Ohio, and every county of all other States where it was thought something of interest might be found.

In most localities, I have also extended the search into 1860 and 1870. However, I am including in this section the whole of that part of the census which seems to best forward the other data with which it is herein associated.

Perhaps, a remark or two on first, or bestowed names would be well placed here. We are hardly aware of it, tho it is a fact that today we still follow the oldest customs in that respect. This is in reference to calling a person by his middle given name. This seems to have always been done, and so do we now. For illustration, John Henry Harsh will be called Henry. Only once in a while the first name is handiest, and so used. Thus, George Simon Harsh is more naturally called George. But if the first name happened to be hard to say, he would be called Simon. In a few instances, the whole two names are said easiest. As, for instance, Joseph Benjamin. Somehow, it seems more necessary to say the whole combination rather than only one or the other. There are other natural combinations, also. As a general rule, nevertheless, we may study the census on the basis that the name given is the middle name of the person recorded.

(Comment - Here is our John Henry Harsh, Sr., and his brother Lewis. As of this date, all the sons of Lewis, except one, had left his roof, and strode out on their own. Lewis died here in 1799, leaving a wife, three sons and six daughters.

As of this date, the family of John Henry Harsh, Sr. consisted of five sons and three daughters. The above shows all sons still under the home roof, and one daughter. The other two daughters have married and live elsewhere.

Elias Horsee and Wm. Horsee have not been identified, but the records in general do appear to indicate they are sons of the Johan Elias Horret whom the Import Lists show as arriving 9-5-1751. It also appears that most of this family moved to and settled in various parts of Lancaster County thru these years. Along with other Harsh families.

(Comment - Here is Simon Harsh, brother of John Henry Harsh, Sr., and two sons of Simon, with families of their own well started. His two other sons, John and Philip, are away from home as of this date, possibly foot-loose and exploring in the Ohio Territory, where John settled.

(Comment - This family line appears to come from the Christian and Johannes Harsche-Mursche-Hersche family found in the Import Lists as arriving in 1743. They seem to have settled in Lancaster County, and spread out after 1785. The above, from here on, is found in the 1800 census as Henry Harsche, Nottingham Twp., and soon thereafter he moved to Trumbull County, Ohio.)

(Comment - The census-taker's indifferent spelling of names seems to have mixed things up here somewhat. A study of the earlier records, tax lists, etc., appears to indicate there is left in this area on this date only the sons of the Johan Elias Herret who arrived in 1751; and the sons of two or three of the elder Hersh(Hersh); namely, Jacob Hersh, son of Lewis Hersh, who died in 1799, leaving wife and children; and Elias Hersh, son of John Henry Hersh, Sr. However, Elias Hersh and family appears to be living with one of the above - or he may be the Elias Hurst with whom, at the moment, some other family of the clan is living.

The children listed in this census of 1820 are our Grand-fathers and Great-grandfathers; our Grandmothers and Great-grandmothers! Most present-day family records reach back to them. Though, only to them, in most cases. So perhaps this study will enable many to connect the distant past with existing family records.

OHIO

Every county of Ohio has been searched for HARSH families as of 1850. It appears that just about every family may be found where expected, up to this date. Then the urge to circulate took hold of the population, and soon after 1850 the Westward movement was well underway.

Indeed, by 1870 HARSH families had moved into everywhere, and it is futile to try finding them in the census, unless family records are first consulted for location.

CARROLL COUNTY, OHIO

(Most of the census takers wrote the name HAISH in this county. This blunder we will ignore.)

ALL FOR STARK COUNTY, OHIO

In the books listing "Early Marriage Bonds of Stark and Carroll Counties, Ohio", noted herein, appear several daughters of the early HARRIS who were married in the period between 1820 and 1845. Accordingly, a separate search of the Census for those Counties was made to find any of them having settled and remained there. The others appear to have scattered far and wide.

NOTE: A Harshman family was noted in Ballard County, Ky., and a number of Harshfield families appear in Bullitt County, Ky.

COMMENT: In the 1850 Census for other States, one or two HARSH are noted as born in Kentucky. However, as will be seen above, Kentucky contained no HARSH families as of 1850, and the entire 1850 Census for Kentucky was searched. Accordingly, it is evident that the same circumstance is present here as, for example, New Jersey, as of 1850 or any other prior census period. That is, in between Census periods a HARSH family moved into the State and lived there for a few years, then returned to the originating State, or pushed on to locate in some other State. These were times of great movements, and ten years is a long time between counts, despite the ease with which we flip these pages and add ten years to the existence of the population.

KENTUCKY, - was formed out of Fincastle County, Virginia
June 1, 1792.

It was soon after 1850 that the population began to flow into the Great Plains West. Then it was the younger generation that made up the first expeditions, for the most part. Followed after 1860 by a vast immigration of people from all Europe. Every page, nearly, of the 1870 census looks like an International Hotel Register. Plus entire colonies of one or another European Race.

There were some Harsh amongst the first settlers, soon after 1850, but to show them for this brief study, I must list the 1860 census.

All for Franklin County, Ohio

(Note: Every one of the Censustakers wrote so very badly, that reading their script is mere guess-work. As if to make the interpretation less likely, they wrote hurriedly at times, and when doing so, they left the A open at the top, causing it to look exactly similar to the U they formed. All other times they wrote the O and A with no difference at all. As a result, the whole record is in doubt).

All for Hamilton County, Ohio

Comment: This County is 95% German, and nearly all adults born in Germany. Studying the census pages is like going thru an enumeration of some old city in Germany itself. The spelling of names is so decidedly German, that it is impossible to determine how they developed during later decades. The times of 1860 are almost a hundred years ago. It is obvious that striking adjustments did take place.

Only by tracing back from present-day family records would it be possible to identify their background in this 1860 Record. So I have therefore included all and everything found in the old record. Only that way provides for just such comparisons - and a research is inconclusive and of little value without the whole available, furnishing every probable chance.

I am inclined to presume that none of these names progressed into a settled use of HARSCH. Even tho a few are found spelled that way this time. As before remarked, the spellings vary so freely, resulting from the indifference to such matters in those times, that any spelling found is in doubt as to whether it represents the correct family use of it, until proven to actually be so by means of careful tracing backward from today's family records.

What little I have done of this type of research for this particular area fails to indicate that any of them were the beginnings of any HARSCH family line of today.

Comment: Nothing of interest in the other counties heretofore listed in previous census periods. In this year 1870 some of the census enumerators took the trouble to note the month infants were born. But some began the census work early in 1870, and if the child is noted as, say 11 months old, and a Fall month is given, it usually means it was born in 1869.

The 1870 census contained a column for noting whether parents of any listed were foreign born. This column was seldom used by any census taker, but some were sufficiently inquisitive to obtain such data, and make use of the column.
